When Golda Meir was Prime Minister of Israel, a cabinet minister asked her to establish a curfew for women to end a series of rapes. She refused and said:

“It is the men who are attacking the women - if there is a curfew, let the men stay at home.”

What can/should we do?

On March 5, the Kaaba was completely empty for sanitation. It was reopened on March 6, but it's still unclear if pilgrims would be allowed in.

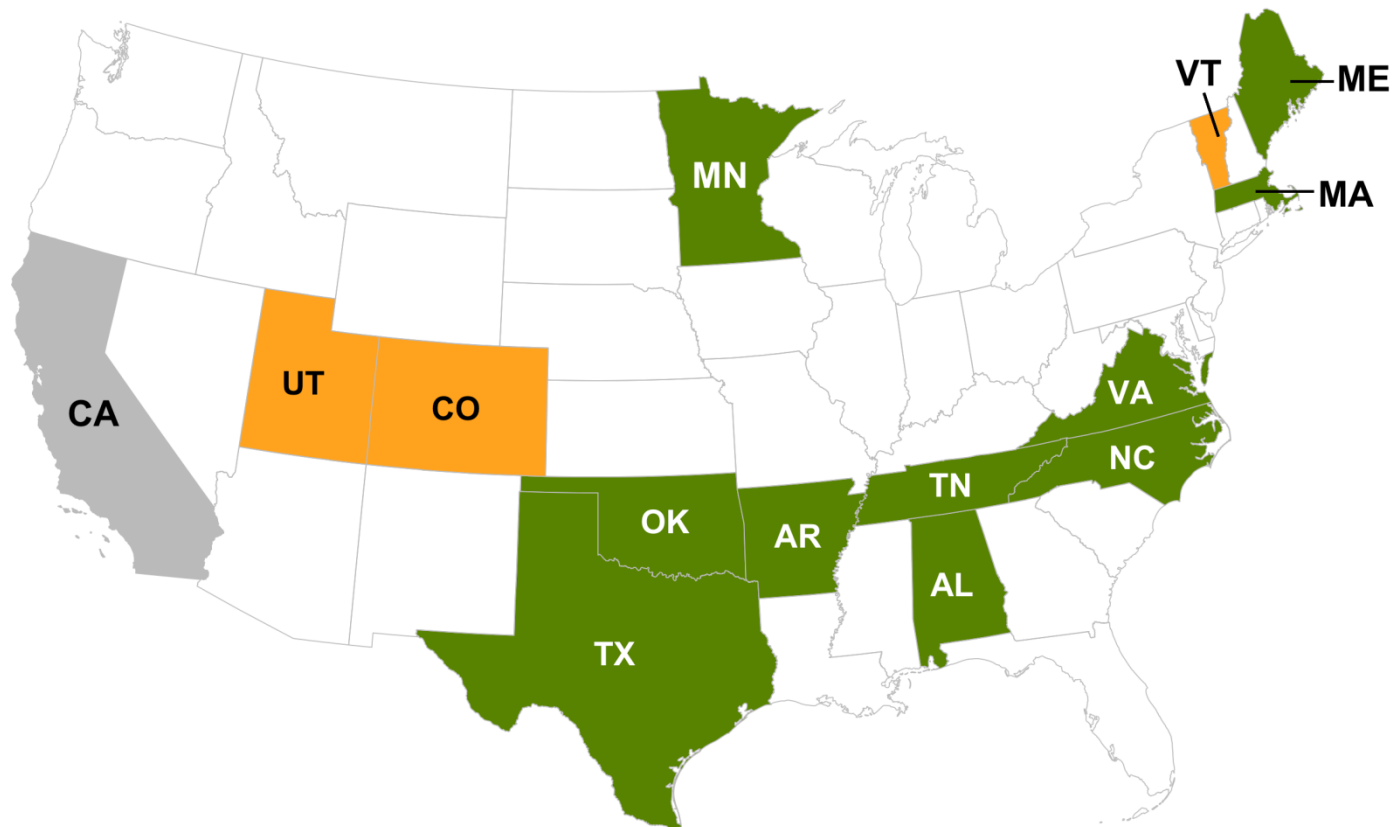

A photograph taken on March 5, 2020 shows the white-tiled area surrounding the Kaaba, inside Mecca's Grand Mosque, empty of worshippers. Saudi Arabia today emptied Islam's holiest site for sterilization over fears of the new coronavirus, an unprecedented move after the kingdom suspended the year-round umrah pilgrimage. How to become a presidential nominee?

Map of March 10 states

Democratic presidential primaries on March 10, 2020

BALLOTPEDIA

Idaho - 20 delegates

Sanders has performed well in other northwestern states, including Colorado and Utah. But with 1,991 delegates needed to clinch the Democratic nomination, Idaho is not likely to play a major role in deciding who gets to face President Trump in November.

Michigan - 125 delegates

Michigan is the largest available prize for candidates on March 10. Sanders' 2016 win in Michigan helped him extend his primary battle against Hillary Clinton, but Biden's Super Tuesday win in nearby Minnesota may be a positive indicator for the former VP.

Mississippi - 36 delegates

A state with a large African-American population, Biden's win in similarly diverse South Carolina suggests Sanders may face an uphill battle for delegates in Mississippi.

Missouri - 68 delegates

Biden won neighboring Tennessee and Arkansas and Tennessee on Super Tuesday, but Missouri has larger metropolitan areas that may favor Sanders.

North Dakota - 14 delegates

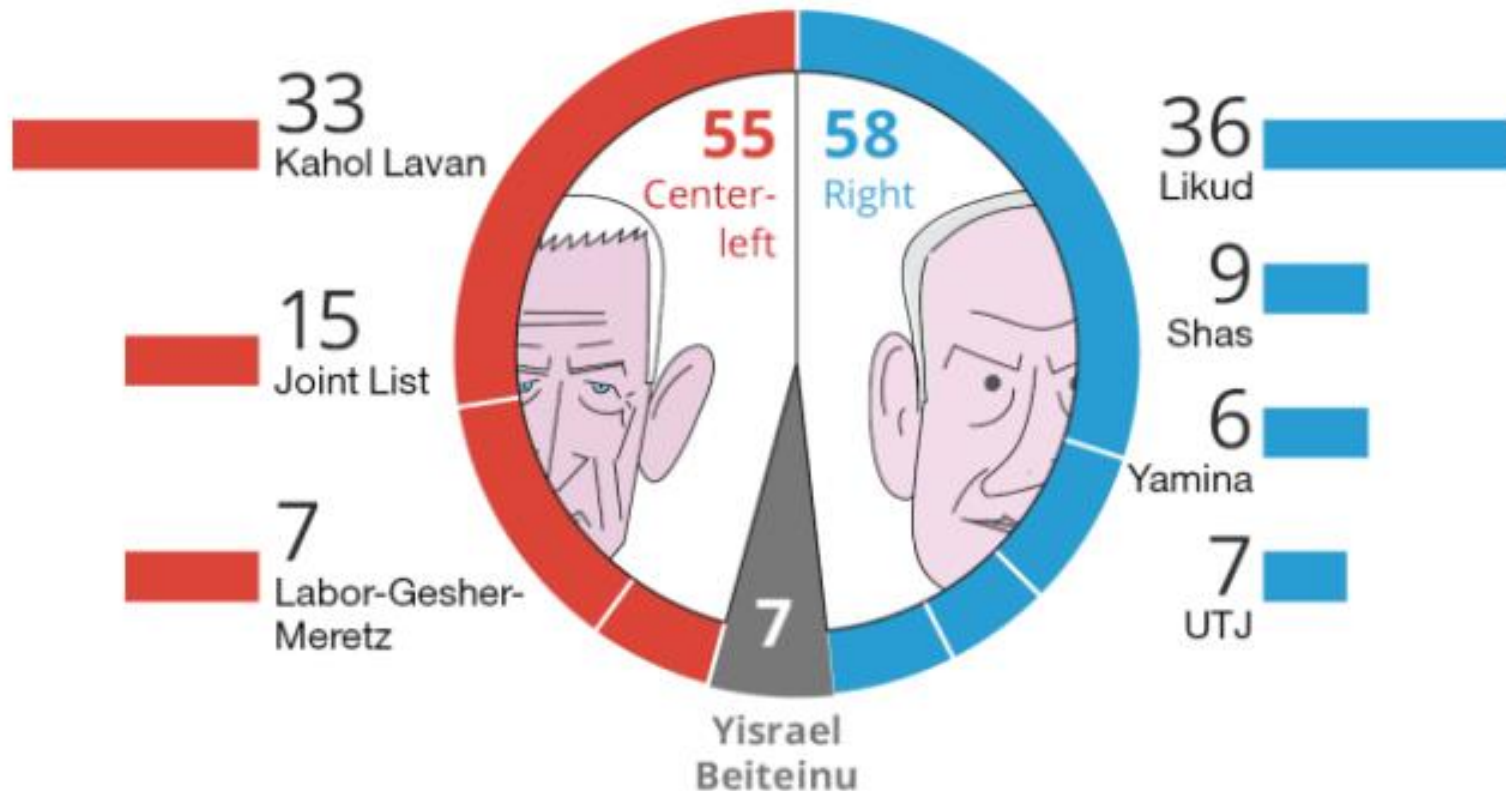

Also a potentially fertile ground for Sanders given his wins in Colorado and Utah, North Dakota offers the smallest collection of delegates available on March 10.

Washington - 89 delegates
